

ABSTRACT

A method is presented comprising receiving a broadband signal at a receiver in accordance with a first modulation technique, tuning the receiver to a channel within the broadband signal, and modifying one or more operational parameters of the receiver to 5 demodulate the channel in accordance with a second modulation technique to determine whether the channel is a data channel.

42390.P10197
EL034439184US